

Contents

About the contributors		v
Preface		vii
Acknowledgements		vii
Chapter 1	Origins Christopher Arnold	1
	Vignette 1: Defining Psychology, British Journal of Psychology , January 1904, Vol 1 No1
Chapter 2	The rise of education Christopher Arnold	12
	Vignette 2: Part of Cyril Burt's contract with the London County Council
Chapter 3	An evolving discipline: Exploring the origins of educational psychology, educational selection and special education Vivian Hill	24
	Vignette 3: Edited extract from the transcript of Burt's 1964 speech, made on being made a Patron of the Association of Educational Psychologists: 'The School Psychological Service: Its History and Development'
Chapter 4	'Challenging behaviour' and the challenges educational psychologists	38
	Adrian Faupel & Julia Hardy
	Vignette 4: An encounter with Sir Cyril Burt Trevor Bryans
Chapter 5	From ascertainment to reconstruction: 1944–1978 Harriet Martin	49
	Vignette 5: Memories of training in the 1960s Chris Reeve
Chapter 6	Psychology for all: Everything you need to know about why it all went wrong and how to put it right Jonathan Soly	58
	Vignette 6: Memories of practice in the 1970s: Was this indeed the optimal time to work as an educational psychologist? Sue Morris
Chapter 7	The changing nature of assessment by educational psychologists:	76
	Yesterday, today and tomorrow R.J. (Sean) Cameron & Julia Hardy
	Vignette 7: My last thirty years as an educational psychology practitioner R.J. (Sean) Cameron & Julia Hardy
Chapter 8	Giving it (psychology) all away in the 1990s! Mike Hymans	92
	Vignette 8: Setting up a special educational needs audit in the 1990s Mike Hymans
Chapter 9	The development of educational psychology in Scotland	106
	Tommy MacKay & James Boyle
	Vignette 9: David Kennedy-Fraser, MA, BSc, FBPsS, FEIST Tommy MacKay
Chapter 10	The move to doctoral training: A study in systems change Norah Frederickson	115
	Vignette 10: Memories of training in the 2000s Juliet Whitehead
Chapter 11	Working across diverse contexts with wider populations:	128
	The developing role of the educational psychologist Vivian Hill
	Vignette 11: Memories of recent training Reem Dean
Chapter 12	The future of educational psychology Andy Allen & Julia Hardy	141